U. S. WILL ASK HUERTA TO MAKE GOOD ON PROMISE TO HIS NATION

Lind Lands at Vera Cruz and Soon Will Be on Way to Mexico City Bearing Wilson's Message; Latter Takes Senate Committee Confidence and Explains Situation in the Rebellion-Torn Republic

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—Two hours of conference tonight between President Wilson, Secretary Bryan and the senate foreign relations committee brought about no change in the attitude of the administration toward Mexico.

The president took the senators into his confidence far enough to outline the following:

That John Lind, his special envoy to Mexico City, does not bear any solution of the present situation, but goes to continue this government's effort to induce Provisional President Huerta to renege his promises for free and constitutional elections.

That under no circumstances will the administration propose to recognize the Huerta government.

That Mr. Lind has come to his conclusion to be the representative of the United States to the senate committee on the ground, and to explain the attitude of this government when he has fully familiarized himself with the situation.

VERA CRUZ, Aug. 9.—Former Governor John Lind of Minnesota, the personal representative of the president of the United States and counsellor of the American embassy at Mexico City, landed on Mexican soil late today and went direct to the United States consulate in Vera Cruz, which is in charge of William W. Canada. When he will leave for the capital has not yet been determined, but it will not be tonight.

The people of Vera Cruz gave no intimation of any desire to indulge in a demonstration of disapproval of Mr. Lind's coming. His landing was witnessed by only a small group, made up of the more patient of the curious persons who had watched from since the battle of New Hampshire, on which he made the trip from Vera Cruz, since the vessel (Lind's ship) arrived.

LIND'S MISSION BOUND TO FAIL?

ASSURANCE OF SAFETY GIVEN

That by gathering a large force of soldiers and sailors to the city, Lind is bound to fail. The president's mission to Mexico City is bound to fail. The president's mission to Mexico City is bound to fail. The president's mission to Mexico City is bound to fail.

John Lind, President Wilson's Unofficial Envoy, Whom Huerta Hints He Will Refuse to Receive

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—Following the announcement of the appointment of John Lind, former governor of Minnesota, as unofficial envoy of President Wilson to Mexico City, the instructions of President Wilson to Mr. Lind were made known.

RURAL BANKING PLAN PROPOSED

WOULD GIVE FARMERS LONG TIME LOANS

Provides Sinking Fund Feature

Extending Credit From 20 to 50 Years

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—A national rural banking system was proposed in a bill today by Senator Fletcher, chairman of the American commission on rural credits and also of the federal commission on rural credits, appointed by the president.

The bill proposes a system of local national rural banks owned and operated by farmers, a state national rural bank in each state to be owned and controlled by the local banks, stockholders, and the national rural bank of the United States, to be located in Washington and owned entirely by the state rural banks.

To supervise the proposed chain of banks, there would be created in the treasury department a division of rural banking under the direction of a "rural banking board," to consist of the secretary of the treasury, agriculture and labor. The division would be the immediate direction of a "director of rural banking" chosen by the president.

Would Aid Farmers.

The main purpose of the banks would be to furnish funds to farmers on long term farm bonds, or notes, secured by loans on farms at not exceeding 60 per cent of the appraised value. Loans would be secured first by a local bank, then by a state bank, and last, by the national rural bank of the United States, and they would not be subject to liquidation.

The national rural bank, to be located in Washington, would be a stock company, with a capital of $100,000,000. The stock would be owned by the state rural banks, and the national rural bank would be a sinking fund feature.

On Sixteenth street the electrical illumination is red, with red smaller crosses extending the length of the thoroughfare. Seventeenth street is decorated with yellow and black crosses, swung across the street from white poles, while hanging upon the ornamental light pillars are illuminated images of grand commanders, in armor, with the seal of the commandery on the reverse side.

August Is It

AUGUST, the month of clearance of all summer goods.
AUGUST, the month we tidy up our store for the new Fall arrivals.
AUGUST is the month you can buy Summer goods at greatest sacrifice. Especially is this true here and the order throughout the house in every department is to "CLEAN UP."
FALL IS HARDLY ON THE WAY YET, and it may be three months before you can welcome it.
Plenty of time to utilize anything that is of a summery hue.

In Best Condition
Our Summer goods were purchased later in the season and are practically same as "just out." No lines are badly broken, but we cannot save them on that account.
They must go, but we have an idea they are a good deal fresher, and a lot more up-to-date than those that have been carried all season. Just be a little careful.

Do You Ever Buy Remnants?
During our Sale up to date we have accumulated a lot of remnants—remnants of all kinds and conditions.

Our Habit
It has been our habit of making Friday remnant day. However, during the coming week, beginning tomorrow, we will keep them on sale, for your convenience, the entire week.
The price being so "awful" low and there are some of our choicest goods among them—you may be able to find just what you want.

Prices Range From Half and Lower
When we say remnants, that does not necessarily have to be good goods but odd lots and lines more or less broken. The word "Remnant" covers "a multitude of sins."

Ready to Put On Garments Sell them, is the slogan now. Just give us the opportunity to show them our prices will do the finishing.

The Last of the Summer Suits
Just a small lot is left of our finest Suits and they are strictly all right. Only the price would indicate that anything was wrong with them, but as we forewarn you this is the only defection, you will be wanting to see them.
Six Dollars and Ninety-Five Cents
Just enough so you can say you paid something for them.

A List of Fall Suits
This lot was not made for this Fall, but they will be sold to pass up if you wanted a suit for ordinary use at the price made on them, viz: $4.95

They Bought $25, $30, and $35 Fall, 1912

LOTS SELLING FAST IN SECOND OURAY ADDITION.

The sale of lots in Second Ouray Addition in Manitou by the real estate firm of Willis Spackman & Kent has been a most successful one during the last week and the idea of obtaining a plot of ground in such a beautiful place as a building site for a summer home has appealed to summer visitors as well as to local people.
Second Ouray Addition is just east of the Red Mountain line and below the white Templar cross, erected on the famous mountain. The plot is beautifully located, giving wonderful scenery, and being situated near the town.
Visitors who come to Manitou during the summer have an opportunity to buy a lot, rent a collapsible cottage and spend several months in their own home. Many have taken advantage of the sale of lots and it is expected that next season the addition will be one of the most popular and attractive in the region. Willis Spackman & Kent have opened a branch office in Manitou for the sale of these lots.

Constipation and Heat Often Fatal

Regularity of Bowels Very Important to Health at This Time.

At this time of the year should pay more careful attention to their bowels than in hot weather. Many things may cause constipation in summer, but whatever it may be the trouble should be promptly remedied. A constipated person lays himself out for himself open to serious and often fatal disease. That feeling of congestion, lassitude or dull headache is the first warning of trouble.

It is not a remedy to be taken lightly. It is a laxative effect, but it is not a harsh one. What is needed is a reliable but mild laxative like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Take a dose of it at night before retiring. It is pleasant-tasting and free from griping and by morning your bowels will be emptied and your head clear. You will feel energetic again.

You cannot obtain such results with cathartics, purgatives, salts or pills. As Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is gentle, reliable, and without toxic value, and is so easy to take, it is the best remedy for constipation. Among the thousands of dependable converts to Syrup Pepsin are the families of Mr. F. C. Harris, Live Oak, Fla., who now finds his stomach better than it has been in ten years; and Mrs. T. D. Diemer, 438 San Pedro St., Trinidad, Colo.

who is cured of various digestive troubles after all doctors that he knew had failed. A bottle can be obtained of any druggist at five cents or one dollar. The latter size being for family use. Results as claimed are guaranteed or your money will be refunded. This grand remedy is the safeguard of health in thousands of sound American families. Families wishing to try a free sample bottle can obtain it, postpaid, by address Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 415 Washington St., Mendocino, Ill.

WORLD'S CHAMPION BRONCHO BUSTER WILL RIDE DURING SHAN KIVE IN SEPTEMBER

Verne Elliott of Platteville, Colo., champion broncho buster of the world, is among those who have announced that they will contest for the $250 saddle which is offered as first prize during the Shan Kive, which opens here with a great marathon race on Labor day.

The saddle was made by A. D. Settler of Silver City, N. M. and is offered as first prize during the Shan Kive, which opens here with a great marathon race on Labor day.

MANY STUNTS ARRANGED AT PUBLIC PLAYGROUND

Story Telling Hours a Regular Feature. Contests Planned for This Week's Program.

So much interest has been displayed in the story telling hours at the municipal playground in Monument Valley park that Play Supervisor Arthur Murray, Jr., has decided to make these events regular features of the work. Monday, Wednesday and Friday will be story telling days. The entertainment will start at 4 o'clock.

Another race and round chess will be held Tuesday, starting from the playgrounds at 2:30 o'clock. Ralph Young will captain the horse and Gilbert Maloney will lead the hounds. The horses will be given only a five-minute start this time and the run should prove more interesting than the one last week.

At a recent meeting of the committee of children assisting in the work at the playgrounds, Gilbert Maloney was appointed to manage the boys' tennis tournament and Edna Wadsworth to manage the girls' matches. Play will start next Wednesday.

Lawrence Swanson has been appointed to work up a hike for the older boys and Emma Green and Jean Gilbert to get up a doll contest among the girls for Wednesday, August 20. Clarence Taylor is arranging the track meet to be held at Washburn field next fall and John Nichols is assisting in working out a schedule of the next play festival.

charge of the frontier events, which are to be conducted in a big corral in the Garden of the Gods. It will require two afternoons to run them off.

Bill Berryman, state brand inspector, is in charge of the cowboy camp, which will be maintained by the Shan Kive and B. D. Burns is chairman of the arrangements committee. They are providing tent and free feeding accommodations for 500 active and old-time cowmen. Free pasturage will also be provided. Good money prizes are offered for the best outfit horses that are brought in.

The committee has letters from cowmen which indicate that this will be the largest gathering of the old timers they have been held in the state. Many western slope men are coming. A part of their entertainment is a cowboy ball in Temple theater the night of September 2.

Verne Elliott won his championship at Cheyenne Frontier day last year and claims this as his last year. He will not get any more prizes. He will get a $250 saddle, but he has no use for it.

Bartholomew, C. of Kansas, writes: "When you have trouble with your chronic constipation, don't waste time and money on a purgative. Get a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It will do for you what no other medicine can. It is a natural grape product, possessing all the medicinal virtues claimed for the grape." For sale by all druggists.

MARSHALLS PARTY OF 100 KNIGHTS OFF TO DENVER

A party of 100 knights, under the direction of George E. Marshall, of Boston, which has been speaking the last few days at the Cliff house, will leave today for Denver to join the national convocation. The party is acting as an escort of honor for the band commander of Newton, Mass., in the band of the Massachusetts and Rhode Island. The party has already visited the principal attractions of the Pike's Peak region, including Crystal park, Pike's Peak and the Cave of the Winds.

HOT IRON CLUB LOOKING AFTER KNIGHTS TEMPLAR

Every effort is being made to take care of the many hundreds of Knights Templar and their families, according to the Councilman of the House of Manitou. Two information bureaus are being maintained in the town, one at the entrance to Soda Springs park and the other in the Journal office. Messenger service is also available at the Journal office. This work is under the direction of the Hot Iron club of Manitou, which is attempting to make the complete this year a success in every department.

The information bureaus are greatly needed, said Mr. Bruce, "for while the streets are numbered the houses are not, and it is almost impossible for a stranger to find his way about. Neither work has been done this year than ever before on account of the energetic organization."

Madame Nina DeBarron, a society leader and artist of Paris and New York, who is visiting at the Cliff house, has almost completed a painting of Pike's Peak from a point near the base of the Rock in the Garden of the Gods. She has also completed an examination of the old paintings before she leaves for Denver.

That the public buildings of Manitou are in excellent sanitary and physical condition is the statement of William Thomas of Denver, a member of the state board of charities and corrections. Thomas has made a thorough inspection of the public buildings in Manitou, on his official visit to the town of the state.

On account of the great crowds of Knights Templar that are arriving daily in Manitou no action will be taken by Curt Goerke until after the conclusion of the state of Manitou park. A group of Chicago capitalists, the park contains 40 acres and includes many of the attractions of the Pike's Peak region.

WASHINGTON STORM DID $60,000 DAMAGE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—An aftermath of the cyclonic storm that swept Washington last week is disclosed in a statement prepared for congress announcing that $60,000 will be necessary to repair the damage done to the buildings occupied by the pension bureau and the office of public lands. This amount represents the loss due to the fury of the wind in stripping off roofs, smashing windows and otherwise wrecking the structures. It does not represent the loss of trees in the grounds surrounding the former structure, many of which were leveled.

Many other government buildings suffered severely in the storm and two at least were struck by lightning in addition to being swept by the gale. Bills for this damage will be submitted later and the total amount for repairs probably will be great.

U. S. TO BUILD GREATEST RADIO STATION IN WORLD

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—One of the greatest naval radio stations in the world, even exceeding in size the new station at Arlington, Va., is to be constructed by the United States at Cavalla, in the canal zone. It will be known as the Darien radio station, and whereas only one of the Arlington towers reaches the height of 800 feet, all three of the towers at Darien will be that high.

The Darien plant, it is expected, will be able to communicate with San Francisco as well as with Arlington and to reach into the southern cone as far as Valparaiso, Chile, 421 miles south of Valparaiso, on the west coast of South America, and as far as Buenos Aires.

Prince Sulkowski Safe in Vancouver

VANCOUVER, B. C., Aug. 8.—Prince Sulkowski, Russian minister to the United States, who was reported to have been kidnapped by a band of revolutionaries, was safely rescued and is now in Vancouver. The prince was captured while on a visit to the city, and was held for several days. He was then released and is now on his way back to the United States.

NOT BEEN NOWHERE

When it was reported that the prince had been kidnapped, many people believed that he had been taken to a secret hideout. However, it was later discovered that the prince had not been anywhere near the place where he was reported to have been held. He was simply in Vancouver, and was safely rescued.

QUITTING BUSINESS

The Whitaker-Kester Shoe Co.

10 North Tejon Street Colorado Springs, Colo.

So the People May Know

As many kindly expressions of regret because we are quitting business have been received by mail and delivered in person that we feel we should publicly acknowledge our appreciation and make a statement that all might clearly understand.

The recent death of Mr. W. H. Tucker, who was financially interested in the concern, and our wish to speedily settle with the heirs, prompts this sale, to quickly dispose of the entire stock.

What the future has in store for the remaining individuals financially and otherwise interested in this business, is a problem that only the future can solve.

If Mr. E. E. Whitaker, continues in the Shoe Business, it will naturally be with cash to insure his success and not with a remnant of no. cash.

All of which is stated so that the people may know that the entire stock now on hand is to be sold for whatever it will bring, and that the business is to be liquidated just as rapidly as facilities permit.

Those who wait will naturally find deeper bargains, in a walk or two, but those who buy now, will get the best, and better assortment, and more assurance of being properly fitted.

CARRIGAN, VEILMAN OF RED SOX, EXAMPLE OF COLLEGE BALL PLAYER WHO LOVED THE GAME

New Bostonese Manager Played Ball Since He Put on Knickerbockers 25 Years Ago

William F. Carrigan, the new manager of the Red Sox, is essentially a product of New England, and his elevation to the managerial berth is a worthy tribute to a player who has long been recognized as one of the most able and sagacious in the ranks of professional ball players.

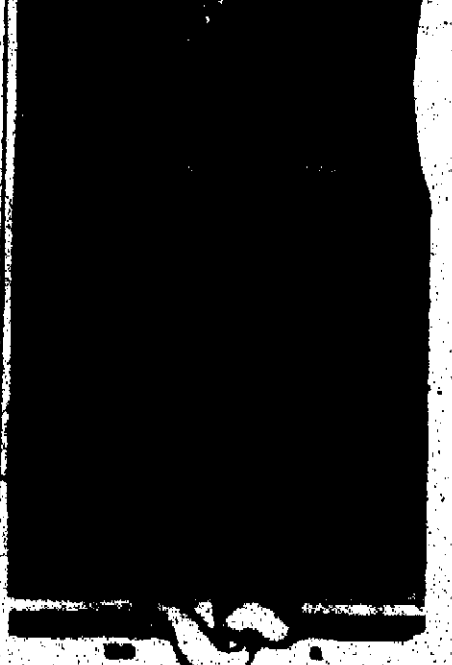

Mr. Carrigan is a native of Maine. He was born in Lewiston, October 23, 1885, learned the rudiments of the game on the stubble fields about his native city, advanced to a greater degree of proficiency while a member of the Lewiston High school team, of which he was captain, and then enrolled at Holy Cross college at Worcester.

There Carrigan played first as a football player. He was aggressive, strong and determined. For two years he played football at tackle, but he finally had to quit because of an injury received in a stubbornly contested game. That injury sustained during his sophomore year, was really the turning point in Carrigan's career. He was, however, he was far better than the average college player as a ball player. It was not until his junior year at Holy Cross that he devoted himself entirely to baseball, although he had played in his first two years. Because of a shoulder wound he elected to try for the position of catcher, and that he excelled as a young catcher. At Holy Cross he developed his skills as a catcher.

Mr. Carrigan's career as a professional player began in 1907 when he was signed by the Boston Red Sox. He played for the Sox for five years, from 1907 to 1911, and was one of the team's best players. He was known for his defensive skills as a catcher and for his ability to control the game.

After his time with the Red Sox, Carrigan played for several other teams, including the Philadelphia Athletics and the Chicago White Sox. He was always known for his leadership and his ability to control the game.

His elevation to the managerial position of the Red Sox is a testament to his long and successful career in baseball. He is a player who loved the game and who has been a valuable asset to the teams he has played for.

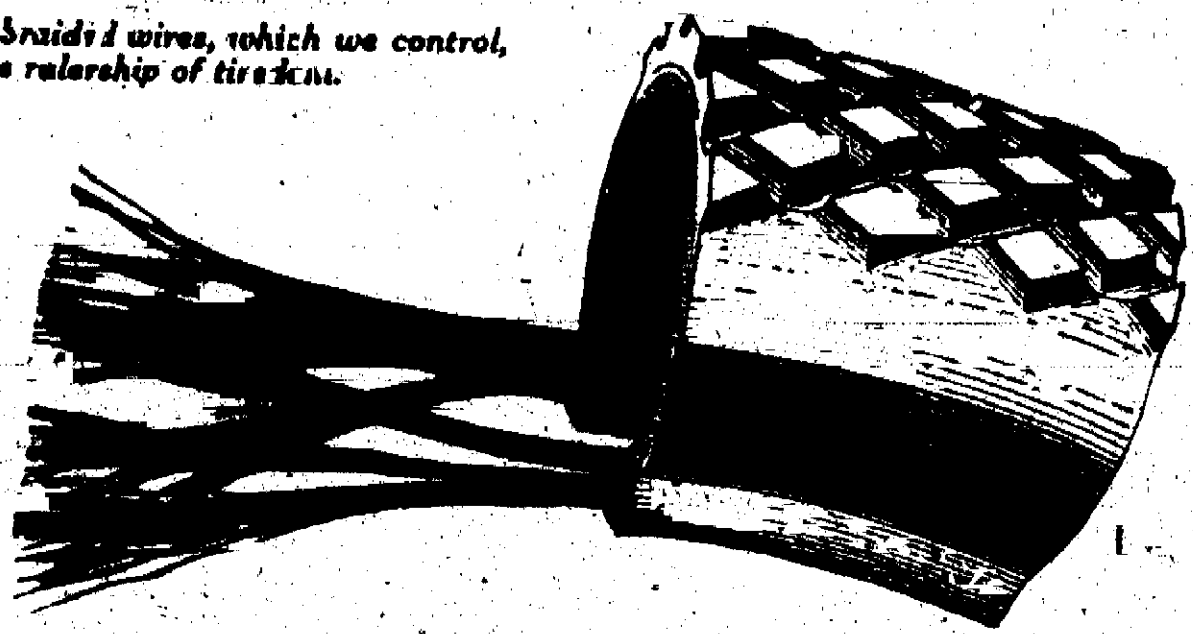

GRIEVES OVER RACE HUNTS

Mr. Harry James Whitney, the New York society leader who charges her husband's aristocracy with the "race hunt," is reported to have written a book on the subject. The book is titled "The Race Hunt" and is a scathing indictment of the social elite for their persecution of people of color.

Whitney is a well-known figure in New York society and has been the subject of much controversy for his views on race. His book is expected to be published soon and will likely cause a stir in the literary world.

These braided wires, which we control, give us rulership of tire land.

The Goodyear Secret

The No-Rim-Cut tire is a Goodyear invention, and we still control it. An essential feature is these braided wires, which no one else can make. The tire can't be cut out—that we guarantee. This fact has saved victor's many millions of dollars. It has also made Goodyear the world's favorite tires. They are the only tires that can be repaired.

Retire Almost 1 in 3

Tires and again we have gathered statistics to show what rim-cut cost. This year we employed certified public accountants, so the figures could not be disputed. They examined thousands of ruined clipper tires, taking them as they came. The old-type, hookless tires. And they found that 25 per cent had been discarded for rim-cutting only. That's almost one tire in three. That's a pretty good idea of the saving secured by this Goodyear No-Rim-Cut tire.

How We Did It

We did it by making a braided wire. We put it in the tire. We made it so that it would be under lock and key—made by secret machinery. They cannot be imitated. And it seems that a faultless tire of this type cannot be made without them. Makers have tried it again and again, but thousands of the tires came back for replacement. So the wish to end rim-cutting has forced tire users to Goodyear No-Rim-Cut tires.

This hookless tire makes it essential to have an unstretchable tire base. It must be held on under every strain, so that nothing can stretch the tire over the rim flange.

We get this by vulcanizing into the tire base six flat bands of 126 braided wires. See picture at the top.

This tire can't be forced off. But when you unlock and remove a flange it easily slips off. There are no hooks on the base to "freeze" into the rim flange, as with old-type tires.

Controlled by Secrecy

These braided wires are made under lock and key—made by secret machinery.

They cannot be imitated. And it seems that a faultless tire of this type cannot be made without them.

Makers have tried it again and again, but thousands of the tires came back for replacement.

So the wish to end rim-cutting has forced tire users to Goodyear No-Rim-Cut tires.

Hundreds of thousands of men have adopted them. And this tire has become, after eight years of tests, the leading tire of the world.

How We Combat Two Other Ruinations

Next to rim-cutting, the costliest item in tire upkeep are due to blow-outs and tearing.

To minimize blow-outs we use the "On-Air Cure." The tires are first vulcanized on elastic air bags instead of an air core.

This prevents the fabric from buckling and cracking. It equalizes stresses. Thus we avoid the cause of countless blow-outs.

This "On-Air Cure" used by us is a secret. It is the only one of its kind.

Tragedy, when it occurs, is due to the breaker strip. This is the fabric strip which comes between the tire and the road in a well-made tire.

For this strip we use a special "break" fabric. This prevents us from running the tread to the head, or of large, deep, irregular ruts in the tread.

GEORGE DIXON THE GREATEST FIGHTER IN HISTORY OF PUGNISM, OPINES NAUGHTON

Napoleon Lead in Padded Mitt Stuff; Next Best Bob Fitzsimmons; Bat Nelson Good

By W. W. NAUGHTON.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 10.—Now it is a "light rain" living in Windsor, Ont., who wishes to draw me out on certain points.

"Being in last Sunday's Detroit News-Tribune that you answered a question put by some fight fan as to who, in your opinion, was the most perfect Australian boxer, I wish to ask you, who you consider was the greatest fighter of all time. If you do not care to answer that, would you please state who you consider the greatest negro fighter of all time?"

"I'll do the best I can, and, to show you, I am not inclined to shrink the issue, I will answer both your questions."

It so happens that in replying to the question I reply to both, for the greatest fighter who ever lived, according to my idea, was a negro, and his name was George Dixon.

It will be as well for you to remember, Mr. Windsor Fightfan, that this is merely an expression of individual opinion. There are no standards by which these questions can be worked out, and settled, with mathematical exactness. Nor is there anything on the face of the earth on which both laymen and experts disagree more than the question of merit in pugilism. This because fighting appeals to the emotions. It arouses enthusiasm and creates heroes and ideals.

I have no doubt (there is still in existence a smattering of very old-timers who will scoff at the idea of Tom Sayers and Ned O'Connell and Donnelly and Cooper being padded) of a slighted feeling for this kind of a slighted feeling, but I am sure that you will be my choice. And I feel that Bob Fitzsimmons runs him a close second.

I name George Dixon because I believe he triumphed over a greater number of formidable opponents than any other man I ever heard of.

Some fighters had their run for the championship belt, when the men they had to come with were on the downward grade. This was notably the case with Jim Jeffries. He defeated Bob Fitzsimmons, Jim Corbett and Peter Jackson when each of these was well past his prime in a fighting sense. Whether or not he could have beaten them had he met them at their best I do not know.

I do know, however, that the world was asked and answered for champions for little else than Dixon. He was the best man of the various fighting champions when they held the championship of their various any other, again, system during the past quarter of a century.

It is more than probable that for every negro engaged in fighting there have been fifty white men, but a glance at the roster of fame will show that the men with black skins have more than held their own.

George Dixon, Joe Walcott, Joe Gans, Peter Jackson, Sam Langford and Jack Johnson.

And select the names of six white men who have done better than they.

Prize fight Zeider suspended Brown and McGraw five days each for fighting after a game. He merely found Lee Mack and Cather 855 each for fighting in a game, but perhaps he thought the Cather-Cather fight was tame.

Fortify Panama Canal or Lose It to An Enemy Is the Next Big Problem

00000 Strong Defenses Inside and Out Alone Will Protect Big Ditch From Seizure in Time of War—Danger in Settlements, or Acquisition by Powers of Other Routes Between Oceans—Naval Bases Must Be Secured in Pacific and Caribbean—Why the Nicaragua Treaty Should Be Ratified.

Panama Correspondence of The Chicago Tribune.

With the completion of the Panama canal the United States will be in possession of one of the most valuable strategic points in the world, both with reference to war and to commerce.

Its great value is its greatest danger. Its possession is of such inestimable value to any nation that in case of war it is inevitable that an attempt will be made to acquire it.

Neutralization would not save it from seizure by a great power. The neutralization of Belgium is not going to keep its territory from being violated by the German armies the next time there is war with France, as is well attested by the existing German war preparations. What value Belgium and Switzerland attach to their neutralization is shown by the way in which these two countries have fortified and armed themselves.

Must Fortify Canal.

Another point against neutralization is that it rolls us of all benefit of the canal in case of war. If our enemy's fleet could not pass, neither could ours. If ours could, so could theirs. The canal held securely in our possession means the unobstructed passage of our fleet and the necessity for the enemy's fleet to remain in its home ocean or to go through the Straits of Magellan, an additional distance of from 4,000 to 6,000 miles.

Our occupation of a continent with frontage on two oceans would be of no use with a Panama canal. If our fleet could not pass, neither could ours. If ours could, so could theirs. The canal held securely in our possession means the unobstructed passage of our fleet and the necessity for the enemy's fleet to remain in its home ocean or to go through the Straits of Magellan, an additional distance of from 4,000 to 6,000 miles.

When the canal is completed, having to take the part in the far east, they were able to destroy it before the fleet from Europe could arrive. Having thus disposed of part of Russia's army, they were able to defeat the balance when it finally appeared on the scene.

Must Keep Fleet Intact.

Such a splitting of force exposing the different parts to being defeated one at a time is a violation of the cardinal principles of war. Our fleet must be kept united in one ocean or the other, for then it is able to bring its whole strength to bear. Also this unity may give us such superiority that a nation considering attacking us will refrain where her superiority to half our fleet would only prove a temptation.

Our possible European or Asiatic enemies facing only one ocean are freed from this problem of protecting two different coast lines operated by a continent. The possession of the Panama canal in good working order means that for purposes of defense our Atlantic and Pacific coasts have become practically one, facing, as it were, one ocean.

We retain this advantage and deprive our enemies of an opportunity to attack both our coasts as long as we retain the Panama canal, and there is no other canal by which an enemy can pass. If there is another canal, and it is in the enemy's hands, or if they gain possession of the Panama canal, then they can send their fleet where they will, while we must keep ours in one ocean or send it through the Straits of Magellan.

First Blow at Panama.

This being well understood, the first blow we may expect in war will be one at the Panama canal, with the intention of taking it from us entirely, or so damaging it as to prevent the passage of our fleet.

The preparations for the defense of the canal must be made now. When war comes it will be too late. The cardinal principle of modern war, as understood everywhere and as practiced everywhere except in England and the United States is to make, in peace times, such perfect preparation for war that when it comes a staggering blow can immediately be dealt the enemy. Generally this blow will be the only declaration of war received.

To get the full benefit of the canal and to prevent our enemies from benefiting by it, we must now, while we are at peace and have the opportunity:

First—So provide for the physical defense of the canal that it cannot be explored or injured by a surprise attack.

Second—So provide for the physical defense of the canal that it cannot be explored or injured by a surprise attack.

Third—So provide for the physical defense of the canal that it cannot be explored or injured by a surprise attack.

Fourth—So provide for the physical defense of the canal that it cannot be explored or injured by a surprise attack.

General Grant also was anxious to bring about the annexation of Santo Domingo, particularly so as to secure a naval base for the United States in the Caribbean. The president of Santo Domingo, his cabinet, and the people were all in favor of annexation. In 1869 the treaty was signed by the Dominican government. It failed, however, to get the necessary two-thirds vote in the senate. Previously a movement had been started in the house of representatatives to bring about annexation by joint resolutions. The resolution was not acted upon, however, prior to the adjournment of congress in 1870.

In his third annual message President Andrew Johnson called the attention of congress to the fact that a treaty for the cession of the Danish West Indies had been concluded with Denmark. Nothing came of it, however, congress as in the case of Santo Domingo refusing or being unable to look into the future.

The recent attempt of the United States to acquire these islands failed nominally because of Danish patriotism, but in reality because of German interference. Since then the Hamburg-American line and German travel representatives have acquired interests looking to the establishment of a base.

Must Watch Dutch Islands.

The Dutch islands off the coast of Venezuela must be watched. They were used by the German warships as bases during her trouble with Venezuela. In the case of Holland being swallowed by Germany, a not unlikely event, these islands would become German.

Foreign Policies Problem.

Immediately we are brought in contact with the foreign policies of other nations and the relationship existing between them. Cuba being virtually under our protection as regards her foreign relations, we can easily prevent the occupation of any part of her territory. In Jamaica, the British flag is a bare nearer the canal than any of the islands in the main route leading to it.

On the Pacific coast of Central America there is but one good harbor. That is in the Gulf of Fonseca. This gulf belongs to Salvador, Honduras, and Nicaragua. At the present time negotiations are under way between the United States and Nicaragua looking to the right to use the Nicaraguan part of this gulf as an American naval base. This is violently opposed by Salvador for no other reason than that he is anti-American and will do anything to prevent the government of the United States from acquiring a base in the Gulf of Fonseca.

Chile A Ready Enemy.

Onwardly the most trouble was raised by Chile. Chile, because of her predominant military and naval strength, has ruled the west coast of South America. Her word has been law.

The opening of the Panama canal injects the United States into this region and, consequently, threatens the dominance of Chile. Hence the Chilean policy has been to, as far as possible, unite the South American states in opposition to the United States. To do this she has raised the cry that the United States will use the canal to export and levy tribute from South America. She has maintained that the acquisition of the Galapagos islands by the United States would be but the first step in the absorption by them of South American territory.

This hostility to the United States for one reason or another is of the utmost importance, as it lends itself readily to the schemes of our possible European or Asiatic enemies. The defeat by Japan of our attempt to lease Magdalena Bay, Mexico, is a good example of it. Our recent failures to acquire the Danish West Indies and the Galapagos islands are other examples.

Panama Not Only Route.

There are two other possible canal routes to connect the Atlantic and Pacific. One is the Nicaraguan route; the other is the Atrato route in Colombia. The Nicaraguan route was bitterly disappointed. The Atrato route is also doomed. The Nicaraguan route is a route to be used as a naval base. It is well placed to be used as a naval base. It is well placed to be used as a naval base.

HOUSEKEEPING MADE EASY IN FOLDING BUNGALOW

From the New York Sun.

When Aladdin rubbed his magic lamp, a genie appeared, received orders from his master and immediately proceeded to carry them out. It was the earliest known application of the "You push the button, we do the rest" method of getting what you want when you want it.

But Aladdin had nothing on Adam Tut-Hout of Chicago. By profession Mr. Tut-Hout is a signist. His most popular claim to fame, to hear him tell it, rests upon a small, wonder house, or folding bungalow, designed and built by himself, in which he and his family live with as much ease and elegance as the average dweller in a three-bathroom apartment.

Mr. Tut-Hout rubs no lamp, nor does he command a slave to do this, that or the other thing—that's the best thing about it, he says. He simply touches a button or a lever, and presto, the partitions of his house move backward or forward, sliding with a grace and ease, turning room table and other articles of furniture appear or disappear as if by magic until the bewildered guest begins to wonder if he is "seeing things."

In this folding bungalow, probably more of the essential of fine living are compressed into a smaller space than in any similar structure ever built. It also eliminates many of the causes of friction which from time immemorial have beset married couples who keep house. All the useless steps taken and the useless energy expended by the average housewife in preparing and cleaning up after three meals a day are reduced to a minimum.

The bungalow is 20 feet square, has a living porch 5x10 feet in front and a wide entrance porch and porch seat. It stands in the middle of a 50-foot lot and is shaded by two great arching elm trees. The house is divided into living room, kitchen, bathroom, downstairs bedroom and furnace closet. There is no sign of a dining room, nor can you find one indicated on the floor plans which the enthusiastic owner shows the guests. Nevertheless, a room exists and you are likely to find yourself in it when you least expect it. That's a little joke which Mr. Tut-Hout delights in playing upon the unsuspecting visitor.

Dinner at the Bungalow.

The easiest way to understand it is to imagine that you have been invited to dinner at the Tut-Houts. After you have been welcomed, the hostess, leaving you in the living room, excuses herself to go into the kitchen—for no maid uper the scheme of harmonious living that this family is working out.

Perhaps the first thing that attracts your attention is the stairway next to the entrance door, and you notice the clever way in which the balustrade forms a set of book shelves running clear down to the floor. Next to this is the closet for outdoor wraps, then the opening of the small hall leading to the bedroom where you took your things off, and next there is an attractive grill which extends from floor to ceiling just in the middle of the long wall space that forms the back part of the living room.

This grill seems to serve no particular purpose, and while you are wondering what it is for your eyes travel along to some water color hanging on the next six feet of wall space. This partition and swinging door, which leads to the kitchen, seem to complete all that there is to be seen along the back wall. But just then Mrs. Tut-Hout appears and hooks the kitchen door back, and you immediately begin to rub your eyes.

Is the wall really moving? you ask. Your hostess stands there calmly with her hand on the door casement, seeming barely to touch it, and yet the whole wall is turning round into the kitchen. You know this because the pictures are going into the kitchen as fast as they can, while with equal celerity a small hanging china cabinet comes into view on what was the kitchen side of the partition.

Nor is this all, for along with the china cabinet comes a massive dining room table, in all the splendor of china and glass and snowy napery and tempting viands. The table appears to be fast to the wall until Mrs. Tut-Hout gives it a touch with her hand, whereupon it takes its position exactly in the center of that half of the living room.

Saved One Half Mile.

Think of that, you busy housewives. A half mile at least of needless walking avoided by setting the table in the kitchen where everything is close at hand, and then moving it by a touch right into the presence of the expectant guest. When the meal is near its end and dessert is mentioned you naturally expect the hostess to go into the kitchen after it. Instead she simply reaches out toward the china cabinet and there, on an open shelf beneath it, reposes the last course of the meal. This shelf also serves to receive the plates and other dishes when they are removed.

But perhaps the best part of it all is that the guest can sit at the table and talk as long as he likes without worrying about the need of moving to allow the table to be slipped off. Or if the doorbell rings and other visitors appear, the table can be sent off simply by pushing it over to the partition and starting it. The wall does the rest and the table is cleared with all the dishes right beside the sink, ready to be washed. Mr. Tut-Hout is now building an automatic dishwasher which he declares will cut in half the time and energy formerly demanded for this work.

The most important part of the home, from the man's point of view, is the furnace. It is in a closet in the center of the room and the front wall of this is formed by the grill already described.

The heating plan was brought down to earth in the first bungalow, but it was insightful. So a school furnace, protected by a drum, was bought and set in the closet space, which is directly in the center of the house. Cold air holes were drilled along the bottom of this drum, the holes 14 inches apart. As it was a school furnace, the side partition of the closet came out off above and below at the same height from the floor as the cold air holes. The front partition was already an open grill close to the floor.

By this ingenious arrangement an absolute suction for drawing cold air up is effected. Its success as the basis of a heating and ventilation scheme is shown by the fact that the house was kept warm all winter on less than 500 tons of coal, this including the upstairs.

Save Other Features.

One of the worst features of using a furnace, the carrying of coal, has been eliminated by another clever arrangement on the part of the owner. There is a two-foot space back of the furnace which runs between the kitchen and bathroom. Here are the gas meter, water meter, washing chest for the bathroom and a stove, which is built to answer the purpose of a stationary coal closet. It holds two tons and has the outside window just high enough so that the coal may be thrown into it directly from the delivery wagon. The slope is so adjusted that the coal always falls to the door of the closet, which is directly opposite the door of the furnace. All you have to do is turn around and take out a splendid load of coal from a coal box.

A revolving dust pan in the corner keeps the sinking of chimney smoke from making the floor under the man or the woman of the house a scene of the furnace.

The kitchen has a stationary laundry tub of porcelain, the top of which forms the drip board of the sink. In the back wall is a china cabinet, with drawers and swinging doors in the lower part and shelves with glass doors in the upper part. As this cabinet is built into the back wall, it is out of the way of the door and the back of glass, so that it is not only out of the way, but also out of the way of the door, as it is only necessary to open one of the small doors in the glass to make the cabinet into a closet.

There is an upper room 15 feet square, with north and south glass doors opening on the living porch, thus making it cool and totally unlike the ordinary attic room.

This folding bungalow cost about $4,000 to build, and it was completed in six weeks, the outside wall being of stucco set on a foundation of concrete.

NEW YORK, August 8. There is a doubt about it the time along the Broadway plate in the swimming period is highly optimistic. This is, of course, in reference to the coming theatrical season. That the managers here look forward to a good season is evidenced actively and prospectively is clearly indicated in their prospective. Every one of the important producing firms in New York have announced that they will launch a greater number and greater variety of plays than they have before in their careers. This is not nothing other than that they are more sanguine than they have been for years. To the casual layman looking from the outside it is not apparent where all this encouragement comes from. A few months ago the tone was entirely different. Some of the producers were almost ready to throw up the sponge and the consensus of opinion among the players themselves, as well as the managers, was that Broadway was up and down Broadway was that the show business had gone to smash.

And a great success has come over the spirit of the managers' dreams.

touch with their agents and with local managers throughout the country, and they have come to the conclusion, as a result of the reports that reach them that business on the Road "will again come into its own" if the producers will deliver the genuine article. This then is another source of the revived hope. If there are any further reasons for this extra sensitive feeling on the part of the producers, they must exist in those occult elements which only the quick intuitions of the producers can perceive. In other words, they should "feel" that the times are auspicious and they are eager to get on the launch of all this new wealth. The result will be a more or less universal outburst of energy on the part of some, while for others, as we have already said, it will be a more or less delayed action of the Robert's.

Broadway looking north from Times square, was very realistic. The many electric signs which are familiar to New Yorkers being faithfully reproduced. Nothing thrills a New Yorker like beholding a cross section of his city on the stage. If the scene is faithful enough to enable him to recognize the city, it is his prototype he breaks out into a song which is so delightful. But it isn't fair to make it appear that this is essentially a New York trait. What would delight a Polish audience more than to have the curtain go up on a scene showing many streets looking north from the Times square corner—with the Pantheon and the Colosseum recognizable in the background?

But to return to the New York scene. There was plenty of fun of the vaudeville order and the old-fashioned cake walk, danced in the most colorful costumes seen on Broadway this year, seemed to meet with high approval.

Among those who were most responsible for the evening's amusement were Mollie King, who played Peg-o'-My-Heart; Beadie Thibault, with her remarkable dancing; Herbert Corbitt, who knows where laughter lies and how to bring it forth; Laura Hamilton, who played a burlesque on Elsie Janis; Charles De Haven and Freddie Nice, who danced in droll and fashionable frock; and Madame, who was a very funny "black-faced" vaudeville. (Lillian Monroe, a most charming little sourette; Harry Gifford, who can make more noise than any other comedian on the stage; Cross Wellington and Lois Josephine, the well established vaudeville favorites; and Charles King, who impersonated George M. Cohan in a clever way, especially in his dancing.

Taking it on the whole, it was a most pleasant evening's diversion for those who like that sort of thing, and most of us do—only in a while.

William Fink's orchestra is one that is noted for its artistic programs and is alone worth the price of admission. Call and see "Billy" at The Burns—any night in the week or Wednesday and Saturday afternoon.

We have a special welcome for Sir Knights.

Another Fleeman brother was featured with the Orpheus brothers, but long since, instructors training and used them to teach the most perfect feat in the world for a four-man act. It is a curious feature of the Orpheus entertainment. The efforts of Alvin and Kenney, it was known this week, will show both daring and skill with a generous amount of comedy sprinkled in, so they will be out on the flying rings, one of the sensational features of the act is a double catch while one of the men is blindfolded.

Julia Rooney, who is one this week's program is a member of the famous money family, which for many years has been foremost in the dancing of the stage. Her father was once a great dancer and comedian, and her brother is a member of the famous Rooney and Bonjorno Troupe. They have a tour of the Orpheus

WHAT ARE YOU LOOKING FOR?

A PROPOSITION THAT MEANS OLD HAPPINESS, WEALTH AND COMFORT?

If you live in the place, why? Because it is the best place for the business in the United States—everything considered—as very little food is required. I have a tract of 4,500 acres near Colorado Springs, across the high, abundant of water. Improvements modern and worth $10,000. One-half hour's ride from Springs with auto. The beauty of this investment is you can control the entire tract by buying less than the number of acres. It is a subterranean and is worth more than it can be bought for. Inside of three years it will triple its value. It is a man's man's paradise. It will be sold to the first man with money, who is a judge of lands and stock business.

I have a number of farms from 100 to 500 acres each, for sale at bargain prices, every acre tillable, no improvements but fencing, water near surface.

PRICE ONLY $1,200

Apple orchard, Western Slope, for half its actual value. Come in and get acquainted.

NEW YORK MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 9. The two-hour session of the stock market today was divided into two periods. The first period, until 11:30 a. m., was characterized by continued irregularity in various lines of business, with a general tendency toward a decline. A few individual stocks, however, were submitted, especially a list of the Erie for the fiscal year, its net income increasing by over $4,000,000, with a surplus gain of $1,000,000. A sharp decline followed a new increase for the year of $1,500,000.

From the sluggish movement of trading stocks, many downward, it was inferred that more serious consideration of yesterday's report with a brilliant promise for wheat did not altogether allay alarm for other staples, although grainers were singularly inactive. Harriman shares were under steady pressure, although the London and Southern, which specialized in International Paper, preferred Virginia-Carolina Chemical, preferred Mexican Petroleum and American Express, fell 2 points.

Reading's heavy tone was associated with recent advice from Washington suggesting further action against the anthracite roads.

Unfilled tonnage figures for July submitted by the United States Steamship Corporation after the close of the market showed a decrease of practically 40,000 tons, and marked the seventh consecutive monthly reduction this year. The volume of business reported today, 5,339,354 tons, is over 20,000 tons less than of a year ago.

The bank statement threw little light on the week's monetary operations, actual loans increasing $2,440,000, while the cash gain of $1,150,000 was below most estimates.

Bonds were irregular. Government issues advanced from 1 to 1 1/2 per cent on call on the week. Total sales, par value, were $32,000.

PIE, THE GREAT NATIONAL DISH

From the Kansas City Journal
 Apple, mince, strawberry, peach, lemon, cream, chocolate, custard, berry, fig date and pineapple.

That's what they hand you in most up to date restaurants if you are uneducated enough to ask what kind of pie they have in stock. It is even heard one of these old codgers speak of the "good old days" when pie was the preponderant feature of the menu, and the sweets of the ordinary American table at breakfast, dinner, and supper take him gently but firmly in hand and lead him around the modern dispensary where the pie and fruit sounds longer than the roll of a democcratic national convention.

Now and then some blunderer in the kitchen will make an apple sauce and "put over" that old one-act pie of the "good old days." He is a blunderer of the first water. In Chicago alone at the present time and age they are making more pie than they can use. The hands of New England could not be employed in a sufficient number to And the reason of it is because there was once such a thing as a pie in the season. The pie today is a permanent institution.

You can have a pie in the kitchen and then give you a gooseberry in the chamber. You don't have to wait till Thanksgiving for your squishy comfort have it on Easter Sunday if you feel so inclined. The farm hand of the venerable values was obliged to wait until July before he started loading up on the berry pie, the season for pie in Chicago is from the first of the elevator and in 12 seconds can do the distance from his desk to the pie counter and have his fork. They don't do it with their knives nowadays, we'll hand them that—buried to the hilt in the juicy bosom of a fine wedge of cherry pie as was ever scooped out of a pan with the juice dripping over the edge.

Figures will substantiate this theory.
 One pie company in Chicago and there are many others, say nothing of the thousands of pie being made on a smaller scale in and about the city—one pie company sends out 36 wagons every day. Each wagon is lined with shelves on both sides. On each side there are shelves capable of accommodating 800 pies. The makes 600 pies to the wagon and 36 wagons. Figure it up and you've got the old-fashioned pie baker who, used to shape them with her thumb and cut with a knife, taking to the haystack. On Saturdays that same company sends its wagons out twice nearly 45,000 pies for just one company.

Why, young fellow, the upholder of the pie of the past will cry impatiently, "we used to eat them things for breakfast."

Lead this skeptic around the corner to a lunch room where Uncle Sam's mail carriers while their morning repast before starting out on their daily Marathon.

"What is the customary breakfast of a mail carrier?" the courteous clerk is asked.
 "Pie and coffee," is the instant reply. "Some like squash and some like apple. They won't stand for grape fruit and breakfast food or any of those new-fangled things. They tell me they've got far to go and so they load up on pie in the good old-fashioned way, loosen a belt and start out on the route."

When the Republican national convention was in session at Chicago a lunch counter was conducted in the basement. There were sandwiches, coffee and pie. Everyone called for pie, and called loudly. There were lines running up to the counter with from 12 to 20 men in each line. Not satisfied with the conventional convention cut, one-sixth, many bought whole pie and ate them from their hands with the juice dripping down their chins. Newspaper men, messenger boys, senators and delegates fought their way to the counter and struggled out of the mass again with the coveted pie. They constitute the national dish and they grow in popularity each day.

EDUCATION IN FOREIGN COUNTRIES

Education in foreign countries is given special attention in a survey just issued for free distribution by the United States bureau of education, in the belief that foreign experience is particularly valuable at this time for affording light on school problems now under discussion in the United States.

In vocational training especially, the report points out, foreign experience needs to be considered. Germany, Austria, Switzerland, Norway and other European nations have for many years been making provision for industrial and technical instruction in public schools, and their systems, while not doubtfully not adaptable as a whole to American conditions, should aid matterially in solving the vocational problem in the United States.

English-speaking countries have been later in adapting education to industrial needs. Canada, like the United States, is now wrestling with the problem; a commission on industrial training has been investigating the subject for the past three years. Scotland has been unusually successful in providing continuation schools that avoid the danger of too early specialization. The Ireland municipal technical schools are transforming the city industries, such as the rural industries were transformed by the earlier agricultural movement. England herself, according to the report, is gaining leadership among the nations by the close organization of all the agencies, social and educational, directed to the improvement of rural life. In England the necessity for better adjustment to industrial needs has been brought home by the closing of the schools during their education beyond the primary school. It is estimated that six out of seven English children now appear in school after having been employed in some extent in the industry.

Practical, co-educational training is considered in some extent in the industry. Among special topics considered are: Health work in the schools of Great Britain; rural schools in Denmark; the teachers' education in France; education for citizenship in Germany; instruction for emigrants in Italy; Robert College in Constantinople; an American foundation; Russian efforts for rural uplift; and the partial adoption in New South Wales of the educational program of the United States.

Schley Ball to Be a Week From Friday

Mr. and Mrs. Chaloner B. Schley have announced Friday, August 22, as the date of their Pierrot ball. It is to be given at the Schley home in Broadmoor, and will undoubtedly be a charming affair, coming as it does during polo week when Colorado Springs will be the center of social interest in the state.

Polo Week Absorbs Society's Interest

Arrangements are rapidly being made for the polo tournaments the last week in August, and even now preliminary practices are being held. Yesterday morning the Country Club tennis which includes Dr. Gerald Bertram Webb, Mr. Joseph Harrison, Mr. Lewis Gibbs Carpenter, Mr. Charles A. Baldwin and Mr. Fred Allen, went up to Denver to practice with the Denver Country Club team on the Denver field.

Portland Keene, one of the greatest polo enthusiasts in the world, is coming on the eighteenth of August, and will be the guest of the Ashton Pottery at El Pomar over the tournament. He is bringing with him a carload of ponies, some of them ponies that were ridden in the international tournament at Long Island. It was while practicing for this tournament that Mr. Keene received injuries which may keep him from playing here.

The ladies have almost all been reserved for the season and only half of the parking spaces are already taken. However, for an event of this importance, the reservation is to be left to last few spectators. Those who have taken boxes since the first list was announced last week are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. James Ferguson, Mr. and Mrs. H. Heath, Mr. Philip de Bevoise, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Orr, and Mr. Wagoner of Fort Worth, Tex.

Mr. and Mrs. Chaloner B. Schley are giving their position on Broadmoor hill the week of the tournament. As they were the first to take boxes, they are the only ones who have not yet taken boxes. Mr. and Mrs. Schley are the only ones who have not yet taken boxes.

Some of the most interesting of the tournament is the management of the Ashton Pottery, which will be given in the afternoon. The Ashton Pottery is a very interesting event, and the Ashton Pottery is a very interesting event.

Miss Ruth Hannah Reid entertained a number of her friends yesterday afternoon at her summer cottage in Stratton park for Miss Elizabeth Todd, who is coming back to her home in the West. Mrs. Reid is now invited to bring her sewing and spend the afternoon with Miss Todd.

Miss Harriet Sater, who is visiting in the city, is the guest of Mrs. L. H. Threlkeld of Fairview, Pa.

Miss Arnold Chosen "Little Princess"

With amazing rapidity preparations for the two midsummer fete, "The Little Princess" and "Much Ado," have gone on during the past week. The large morning rehearsals at the Temple theatre, have been daily rendezvous for scores of anxious, eager young people who are preparing to make their first bows behind the footlights three weeks hence in these operettas.

Sweet charity is the cause—the vacation season the opportunity, and the catchy, captivating story of a lonely princess searching for a prince is the theme for which over 100 of the most talented young people of Colorado Springs are to appear in delightful dances, choruses and dialogues.

Naturally the event of paramount importance has been the selection of a suitable "Little Princess" to assume the title role of the first operetta. For it is around her that the plot of the story revolves. The choice has indeed been a happy one, for the honor has fallen to Miss Berthe Arnold, the talented daughter of Dr. and Mrs. C. R. Arnold, to whose dignity of ancestry and position is added a winsome and altogether attractive personality. One of the prettiest compliments that could have been paid Miss Arnold was given by the little children who are to be her fairy benefactors in the play—lots of six and seven years—who, upon being presented to her, exclaimed, "Yes, she looks just as we wished the 'Little Princess' would."

The dialogue of the operettas, both of which are to be given a matinee and an evening performance, will be a unique pageant, the conveying of the court in the land of flowers by her royal majesty, the Queen of Flowerland. The lord high chamberlain of the kingdom—a bachelor's button—will announce the arrivals of all the duchesses, who will be attended by their dukes, their maids and their squires. These will pass down a floral aisle to the stage, make their obeisance to their queen, and take their place in the court circle about her majesty, who will then summon the children of earth to produce for her the fairy play. Each duchess will be gowned to represent the flower over whose kingdom she reigns.

Fashionable society, as well as lovers of art and progress, are taking a keen interest in these operettas as they embody in sweet ideas in certain forms of child culture and typify the children's theater movement, which, it is claimed, will revolutionize the manner of teaching art and grace, poise and dignity to children.

NEW-T FANCY IN PERFUMES

From the New York Sun.

In her gowns, her hair, her shoes, even her fingernails, a woman is more or less subject to the decrees of fashion; but when it comes to perfumes she can individualize to her heart's content.

In France the more fastidious women have perfumes, soaps and in fact all toilet preparations made to order. In America this happens less frequently, for most women are satisfied with the "best seller" in perfumes, the most popular face powder, and generally a rather inferior soap; while large sums are spent for cold creams to remedy the harm done by the soap.

Many people, particularly men, do not care for heavy perfumes. Yet, with Bret Harte, they usually agree that there is no sweeter or more womanly way for a woman to portray herself than in the use of a delicate scent.

It would be absurd to suggest that all women should have individual perfumes, for that would be disastrous to the popular scents and their makers, and then some of these perfumes are really exquisite. A suggestion that has been followed for years is to select a favorite flower, and to wear it always, not varying it with one's moods, and to use an appropriate scent with it.

When a woman decides upon a flower for personal adornment it is not hard to find a perfume to use with it. Very often the pure scent of a flower is too heavy or too sweet to be quite pleasant, while a bouquet which vaguely suggests the flower is far more subtly attractive. At any perfumer's sample bottles of scent may be purchased for trial.

Violets Come First

Violets are first choice for the corsage bouquet for many, but a desirable violet perfume is the hardest of all scents to procure. If one is a lover of the violet, or of purple, a flower used by a New York widow for the last six years might be tried. This widow wears winter and summer, day and evening, a soft shower bunch of heliotrope; her perfumes, powders, sachet powders and soaps are all scented alike, and though not as sweet as the natural flower they suggest it.

Sweet peas come in a profusion of colors and are procurable at all seasons of the year, so that they seem a very desirable selection, and there is no perfume used less generally, or made more like the original flower than the scent of sweet peas. All the great perfumers make it, and it is a very lasting odor.

Mignonette is a flower little used, yet it is quaint and thoroughly feminine. There must be at least 50 cents in the market that resemble its perfume.

Geraniums are certainly individual, and one Paris perfumer has a scent that is not distinguishable from the five flowers' perfume.

As Washington debutante appeared two years ago with a corsage bouquet of maiden hair fern, and no flowers, she used a good violet perfume that instantly made one think of spring. She was at first criticised for her eccentricity, later she was copied by scores of her friends.

Things Women Can Learn in Some Odd Restaurants

From the New York Tribune.

An occasional meal at one of the expensive French table d'hôte establishments that flourish in the downtown studio district is full of suggestion to the home caterer, of moderate means. If she is observing and picking out for ideas, these houses are she will get her money's worth of inspiration, as well as food. Charging an average from 50 to 65 cents for these little dinners, it is obvious that the French or Italian proprietress knows the secret of frugal buying, careful preparation and attractive serving. These are three essentials to the housewife trying to solve the problem of living on the present top notch price.

Hors D'Oeuvres and Salads.

Beginning with the hors d'oeuvre, the woman in search of ideas should be on the alert for methods of arrangement as much as for anything else. While she may not care to serve any such creature at her own dinner table, these preliminary are often easy to duplicate as a salad course for the home menu. Worth copying, for instance, is the arrangement of a half dozen stalks of cold asparagus slipped through a thin ring of green pepper and the first covered with vinaigrette sauce. Perhaps the next week a slice of pimiento will be laid in a basin, the stalks will lie flat on the plate, the tips liberally sprinkled with finely chopped parsley over the vinaigrette sauce. These are little touches, but they do much to stimulate the appetite.

If the hors d'oeuvre should happen to be a couple of slices of raw tomatoes, look at the flexible little anchovy curled round and round in the center of each slice. Or instead, there may be just a spoonful of finely chopped cabbage moistened with French dressing, and piled in the center of each plate. A few flowerets of cold cauliflower sometimes appear set in a circle of thin lettuce-leaves, giving the effect for all the world as if a bouquet of white flowers surrounded with foliage. And so it goes. The observing woman will be quick to see how easily and effectively these little touches can be duplicated for the home table.

Inspiration in Entrees.

The soup course offers little of novelty, so that the idea gatherer may concentrate on the entree, which is quite sure to prove an inspiration. Translucent strips of cucumber, served with a spoonful of Hollandaise sauce as an accompaniment to a bit of fish, will probably be a novelty to the average housewife. If she dines at the same table a few weeks later she may be served with dried cucumbers, boiled with cream sauce, or again they may be fried in butter and served in a little oil or butter. These are little things, but they are easy to prepare. They are worth remembering, particularly if one of the home group is convinced that an entree in their native state are indigestible.

What has the appearance of delicate, of butter served with a slice of boiled tongue is in all probability a boiled tongue of the cold cut into thin slices and served like spinach, always with the oil and butter in the way. For example, small carrots, sprouts, cauliflower and roasted around away in a favorite vegetable with forcemeat. The carrots are boiled frequently in a stock of cold water as our American cooks cook potatoes around beef. The carrots are large the process is the same, except that they are first either boiled or steamed, according to the season, and of boiled rice, seasoned with curry and topped with a spoonful of chopped mushrooms browned in butter, is something of a novelty in rice serving, and, plain boiled rice as a foundation for half a baked tomato, the other vegetable arrangement which the observing woman will do well to duplicate as an accompaniment to steak or roast beef. Potato, the staple of all American households, is rarely the only vegetable not encountered in the French and Italian restaurants. Rice and beans in unlimited variety are used instead.

Salad With Variations.

At these unpretentious foreign eating places the salad is an important part of the meal. The lettuce or romaine is usually brought to the table in a salad bowl and the ingredients for the dressing passed. The contents of the bowl vary at the different establishments and in this variety lies much of its interest to the woman out for novelty. For instance, to find a stalk of what looks to be celery, but proves to be fennel, arouses undigested amazement. Seeds of fennel are the only part of the plant that good Americans have ever thought of eating—but here is the root served in the salad bowl. Cut into bits like celery, it gives to most unusual flavor. A spoonful of dried cold vegetables is sometimes in the salad bowl, and often there is a hard boiled egg, shelled but not cut, lying in the depths of the green-lined bowl. The allowance is usually one egg to every two persons.

It is a curious fact that the man of the party is usually the accepted salad maker. The novice at foreign table

What the Tailors Promise for FALL

This striking Paquin suit has the new enormous pockets

Pile Fabrics of Light Weight the Ultra Mode - Plaid and Striped Silks Used in Effective Trimmings - The Sash a Feature of Tailored Wear - Skirts Shorter Than Ever But No Less Narrow.

FABRICS and not form offer the striking new note in tailored wear. The silhouette promises to remain much the same throughout the autumn and winter season, though the oriental influence is making itself felt less and less and is slowly but surely being supplanted by effects more conventional and refined. But tailors throughout the land are interesting themselves in new fabrics and new colorings and the most pronounced fall feature is the use of pile fabrics of light weight. This does not mean materials of heavy or cumbersome texture for the lightest and most successful as the silks of the summer season just passing. The pile fabrics are of various textures, some of which are particularly well liked and there is a new star over which Paris is said to be glowing. This is called drape and is a woolen material with a pile of fine cashmere and a texture as soft and pliable as that of cotton. It is said to be the most successful of all pile fabrics and is being used in a great many of the new autumn costumes and in the most effective of the new autumn costumes.

Skirts Very Short, Says Paris.
Like the weights on a Swiss clock, skirts move up and down. Now they are up again, and hems will well escape the ground. This seems rather strange in an era of draped effects, but since the new skirt clings very closely about the hips and the ankles, its shorter length is not as startling as it might seem. Footwear, of course, with these caught-up skirts, will be very, very conspicuous and no doubt the bootmakers are congratulating themselves upon this fact. At the same time, the new skirt is a very close-fitting skirt, and the hem is not as high as it was in the summer of last year. of the new mammoth vests of white plush. A sash of navy blue silk encircles the waist, over the vest, and falls gracefully at one side. Note the closely set buttons and buttonholes on the waistcoat which buttons straight to the throat—or as in this instance, is left unbuttoned part way down. The straight lines of the skirt, simple coat collar and severe coat sleeves, are in keeping with the new coloring scheme for mannish effects. A vest which some French tailors profess will follow the recent craze for loosely draped, oriental effects. This type of vest is accompanied by a long, straight walking hat of dark blue plush trimmed with black grosgrain ribbon.

terra cotta woolen material in a new, light weight, sponge weave which promises to be very fashionable. Paquin has not forgotten, however, that pockets are the sign manual of the new season and has added them in good measure to this graceful suit. The coat might almost be called a tunic and it falls over a skirt caught up at the front in the new fashion. Wide trimmings of silk braid and fringes to self color and a collar and cuffs of Post Impressionist silk in shades of blue and rose add to the attractiveness of the suit. The coat is lined throughout with the gay Post Impressionist silk and forms an important trimming feature when the coat is removed and placed over a chair back of its possessor. With this Paquin suit of terra cotta sponge fabric is worn a sheer little blouse of cream embroidered with white over cream and pale blue ribbons attached to the neck showing through the embroidery and forming a delicate color harmony with the terra cotta suit.

NOTHING more certainly destroys the fresh and smart effect of a spic and span new autumn costume than footwear that is reminiscent of the summer. Dainty as the buckled patent leather pumps may still be in shape and condition, their summery character will inevitably rob the new fall costume of some of its flavor, and it is a wise woman who provides new footwear—and new gloves—with her new suit, even if she knows to drape a veil over her summer hat.

The buttoned walking boot is still the standard of good taste and correct form with out of door costumes of a formal and semi-formal nature; but as tailored suits have grown more fanciful in type, footwear has grown daintier and more feminine until nowadays the very high-heeled butbuttoned walking boots with welled soles, Cuban heels and tops of fine twilled cloth. After all, such boots, resembling in their elegant simplicity and distinction of line the conventional dress boot of the masculine sex with its slender patent leather vamp and top of twilled cloth, seem to give the most tone to a tailored street costume, and such boots are worn by the women who are notably fastidious about the finer details of dress.

All aristocratic boots have now a long, slender, patrician-line—the aim being to make the foot look aristocratically slim. Anything like a stubby effect is sedulously avoided and the short-vamp boot is hopelessly passe—so far as well dressed women are concerned. The French foot is short and thick; the English foot long and slender; the English ideal therefore prevails at the present moment—as far as footwear is concerned, though all other standards of fashion are essentially French. The smart boot, and even the smart slipper now has a long, rather receding line of toe and while the modish foot is slightly longer from a side view than it was two seasons ago, the front view is extremely slim and patrician—and curiously enough, the ankle looks smaller and trimmer with these slender foot lines than it did in the days of the short-vamp shoe with its stubby toe and steep instep.

Colonial pumps with curved buckles and high, curved heels are very pretty with indoor costumes like gowns for reception, bridge and restaurant wear. There is a new boot heel, almost as curved as the Louis type yet somewhat broader at the base and setting more squarely under the heel of the foot and less toward the center of the sole than the regulation French heel. These heels are really comfortable for walking, and one observes them even on buttoned boots for street wear. They are actually no higher than the very tall, straight Cuban heel and afford quite as much support to the weight of the figure. With evening gowns the high-heeled buttoned boot of suede or satin, or the little satin slipper with buckle of cut steel or rhinestones is the choice. Men-moth, slithering steel buckles on pumps worn in the street are not affected now by best dressed women, unobtrusive buckles of covered type being preferred.

The modern mind has special dainties for the popular tea dances at which dainty afternoons gowns and hats are worn. Some women prefer a buttoned boot for dining, others, a shoe with the ankle unbuttoned. When the foot is the sensation it is lacking of the all-ways-dressed patent leather with a buttoned top of cloth or suede in contrasting color, gunmetal, taupe and fawn being the most popular shades. A prune colored ashadow frock noted the other afternoon was accompanied by fetching, French heeled gaiter boots of patent leather, the smoothly fitting buttoned tops being of prune suede in the shade of the frock. An adorable little velvet hat with a graceful shaded yellow feather completed this charming afternoon dancing costume.

A great deal of white lace and white or cream machine embroidery is incorporated into afternoon frocks for autumn indoor wear, whole tunics of machine embroidered mull being dropped over softly draped skirts of satin, and broad sashes of colored silk swathing the embroidered tunic at the hip. Such frocks, including a deal of white, are often artfully matched by a note of white in the footwear; black slippers or buttoned oxfords being worn with white of very pale gray silk hose. In Paris just now they are wearing, even with smart tailors, sandal slippers with many buttoned straps which cross over instep and ankle, white stockings making the strap arrangement all the more conspicuous. Such fanciful footwear would not, however, be looked upon with favor by American women whose ideas of correctness as far as tailored street raiment is concerned are more conventional and conservative than those of French women.
